The Medical Reserve Corps (MRC) is a community-based, civilian volunteer program that helps build the public health infrastructure of communities nationwide. Each MRC unit is organized and trained to address a wide range of challenges from public health education to disaster response.

The West Central Florida MRC works to:

- Reduce the health effects of man-made and natural disasters on the local community.
- Match the volunteers' skills and interests with their community's needs.
- Train health professionals in disaster response to improve local emergency response efforts.
- Organize volunteers' to respond to local health needs and priorities.

Volunteer Teams include:

- Special Needs Shelter
- Disease Outbreak Field Investigation
- Disaster Medical Response
- Disaster Behavioral Health
- Immunizations
- Radiation Response Reception Center
- Veterinary Disaster Medical Response
- Leadership Advisory Committee
